

Governing programme: Pensions to be increased annually to cover inflation rate and minimum 58.5pct of average salary increase

The value of the pension point will continue to increase annually to cover the inflation rate and also at least 58.5 per cent of the growth rate of the average gross salary in the economy, according to the governing programme for 2020-2024 submitted to Parliament on Wednesday morning by the appointed Prime Minister, Florin Cîtu.

The governing programme also provides for the establishment of a mechanism regarding the predictability of the annual increase of the pension point.

Also, the new government intends to "assess the impact of the pension law in the public system following the activity of a working group with the Ministry of Public Finance, the National House of Public Pensions and the National Strategy and Forecast Commission, as well as representative organizations of the elderly, so as to identify measures to reduce inequities in the public pension system.
