

Legal Tech Hub accelerator programme call for applications

The Legal Tech Hub Vienna (LTHV), which was launched by seven Austrian law firms including Schoenherr, is calling for applications for its accelerator programme. Legal tech start-ups and SMEs from Romania are invited to apply via this link: <https://lthv.eu/lthv-accelerator-programme/>

Companies that work on legal digital solutions based on machine learning, AI, platforms, semantics or blockchain, and that work on legal solutions involving client management, legal management, transactions, business development or data analysis, are invited to apply. Applications close on 27 January 2019.

Gudrun Stangl, Partner & COO at Schoenherr and LTHV board member: "We're happy to be part of such a unique initiative. Working for a regional law firm, I'm excited that legal tech start-ups and SMEs from all over Europe can apply to the programme. I'm looking forward to all the innovative ideas that will come our way."

In October 2018 the seven law firms, Dorda, Eisenberger Herzog, Herbst Kinsky, PHH Attorneys at Law, Schoenherr, SCWP Schindhelm and Wolf Theiss launched the LTHV. This unique initiative, that brings together seven law firms, will lead the legal industry into a digital future, while ensuring that clients' needs are of primary concern. The goals of LTH Vienna are: to gain internal efficiency, to digitise existing processes, to analyse and automate new operations, and to develop digital services and new business models.

For more information on LTHV and the accelerator programme, please follow this link: www.lthv.eu